

From: 'Marshfield Times', Wednesday, April 11, 1917*:

CLINIC DOCTORS OFFER SERVICES TO GOVERNMENT

Announcement Made Monday by This Corporation Is a Broad One

DOCTORS ARE CAPABLE

All of the Men Are Skilled in Their Respective Lines and Their Willingness to Sacrifice Their Own
Time Shows Loyalty.

---

You can't stop patriotism in this city. It is leaking out all over. While so far none of the professional class of the city have offered their services in the event of war, the announcement was made Monday from the offices of the Marshfield Clinic in the Thiel building, that all of the doctors of this corporation have offered their services to the government in the event of war without any restrictions whatsoever, and that they will act in any capacity they are called upon. This statement of the doctors is a broad one and the people fully alive to the importance of their offering, will readily realize that the offer is by no means a trifling one viewed from any standpoint.

This free will offering of all of the doctors of the Clinic adds just one more feather to the loyalty and patriotism shown by the people of this city in the great crisis our country is approaching.

Everyone of the doctors is capable of rendering skilled service in medical lines should their offer be taken by the government, for the doctors of this city have a reputation all over the state that speaks for itself.

The personnel of the Marshfield Clinic as regards their specialty follows:

Drs. R. P. Potter and W. G. Sexton—X-ray specialists.

Dr. H. H. Milbee—Internist.

Drs. K. W. Doege and V. A. Mason—General surgery.

Dr. William Hipke—Eye, ear, nose and throat.

Marshfield can well feel proud of its citizens and professional men, and everyone here knows now that when the call of duty comes, it will not just take a certain class of people, but that all men regardless of their rank in the professional world will be in the fight for America, in this, a most troublesome time.

(*The 'Marshfield Times' was published weekly on Wednesdays.)