CURRENT ISSUE

Journal of Agromedicine 14(3), with the bull on the cover, is now online and being mailed. Four of the manuscripts address animal-related injuries and zoonoses, including a major review of bull-related incidents (Sheldon et al). Our thanks to Richard Huntrods at the Feldun Purdue Ag Center for providing the cover photo. We are always open to cover photo submissions.

NEXT ISSUE

Journal of Agromedicine 14(4) is scheduled for publication in November. It features five manuscripts from the conference New Paths: Health and Safety in Western Agriculture, held November 11-13, 2008, in Cle Elum, Washington. Richard Fenske, director of the Pacific Northwest Ag Center, provides the introductory editorial. Conference papers include: "Cultural Effectiveness in Research: A Summary Report of a Panel Session Entitled Engaging Populations at Risk" (Levin et al); "Biomonitoring State of the Science: A Report on a Panel Presentation and Round Table Discussion" (Keifer); "Ergonomics in Industrialized Dairy Operations" (Douphrate et al); "Aerosols in the Agricultural Setting" (Plummer et al); and "New Technologies and Worker Safety in Western Agriculture" (Fenske).

ASHCA-NIOSH 2010

We will publish papers from "Be Safe, Be Profitable: Protecting Workers in Agriculture," scheduled for January 27-28, 2010 in Dallas/Fort Worth, and co-sponsored by the Agricultural Safety and Health Council of America (ASHCA) and NIOSH. Papers will provide state-of-the-art review of major issues affecting the safety and health of production agriculture workers. For more conference information, go to www.ashca.com.
